Popular Areas to Rent Nearby

PT 1

These are some of the most popular areas to rent near the EY office. Start with the weekday routine and social setting you want, then compare the actual apartment. Four close-in choices make a useful first shortlist.

EY OFFICE · 2323 Victory Avenue, Suite 2000

Dining nearby · Park access
Walk-to-office options

Southern Uptown / Pearl Street

Start by comparing southern Uptown and Pearl Street with the areas around your EY office at 2323 Victory Avenue. Dining, Klyde Warren Park and the Arts District can shape a convenient routine. The right choice depends on your exact apartment entrance, preferred walking destinations and office schedule. Test the complete journey before deciding.

EY OFFICE 15–25 min walk / 5–15 min drive

EXPLORE →

Shopping · Trolley access
Dining nearby

Uptown / West Village

Picture a Saturday that starts with coffee and continues with shopping or lunch close to home. West Village brings several everyday destinations together, with trolley access as an extra. For a EY newcomer, it is worth comparing with southern Uptown: you may prefer the activity here even though the office trip is longer. Explore the exact block and your grocery route.

EY OFFICE 10–20 min drive

EXPLORE →

High-rise options
Arena events · Dining

Victory Park

If you enjoy tower living and having something happening nearby, put Victory Park on your shortlist. Arena events, restaurants and central access give it a different rhythm from a quieter residential setting. Look closely at the experience inside the building too: service, packages and an easy departure can matter when you travel. Visit during an arena event to test noise and garage access.

EY OFFICE 3–12 min walk / 3–8 min drive

EXPLORE →

Trail access · Boutiques
Dining nearby

Knox Henderson

Knox is a strong comparison for a neighborhood you can use every day: restaurants, boutiques, grocery errands and Katy Trail access can become part of your routine. HomeBase encourages comparing the exact Knox pocket with West Village and Victory Park rather than choosing by reputation. The two sides of US 75 differ, so choose the walking destinations and office route that suit your life.

Popular Areas to Rent Nearby

PT 2

There is more than one way to feel at home in Dallas. These three settings broaden your rental search, from a calmer central neighborhood to a residential community with more separation from the office.

EY OFFICE · 2323 Victory Avenue, Suite 2000

Creekside parks
Condo & rental options

Turtle Creek

If you would like a calmer place to come home to, explore Turtle Creek. Green space and a mix of rental and condominium buildings create a different setting from an entertainment district. You can still make plans around central Dallas while giving your evenings a quieter base. Compare your trail entry, grocery trip and building condition rather than assuming every address offers the same experience.

EY OFFICE 10–20 min drive

EXPLORE →

Patio dining
Varied apartment styles

Oak Lawn

Oak Lawn is worth exploring when you want restaurants and a choice of apartments, condominiums or townhomes without limiting the search to one tower district. The experience changes from block to block, which makes an in-person visit especially useful. Walk around the exact home, try the errands you would make each week and compare the building services with your closer-in options.

EY OFFICE 8–18 min drive

EXPLORE →

Resident activities
Drive-to-office option

The Village

If the closest neighborhoods do not give you the setting you want, add The Village as a deliberate contrast. HomeBase highlights it as a residential community option for newcomers who are comfortable driving to work. Compare the actual community, resident activities and amenity access with the closer-in neighborhoods. A longer commute can be worthwhile when you prefer your daily routine, but test the full trip first.

MAKE THE SHORTLIST YOUR OWN

Tell us your start date, comfortable monthly budget, office schedule and the two things you most want nearby. HomeBase can help you compare neighborhoods and apartments around those priorities. If you travel often, ask about package handling, concierge hours and access for trusted service providers. Your time at home should feel easy to enjoy.

ONE BEDROOM / YOUR ROUTINE / YOUR BUDGET

Renting: Plan Your Budget

A comfortable budget is personal. These broad monthly planning ranges can help you begin a one-bedroom apartment search in the areas we recommend. Share your priorities with HomeBase and we will help you explore the options.

AREA	MONTHLY PLANNING RANGE
Southern Uptown / Pearl Street		$2,200–$3,500 View pricing source
Uptown / West Village		$2,000–$3,000 View pricing source
Victory Park		$1,700–$3,200 View pricing source
Knox Henderson		$1,800–$3,000 View pricing source
Turtle Creek		$2,000–$3,300 View pricing source
Oak Lawn		$1,600–$2,800 View pricing source
The Village		$1,300–$2,600 View pricing source

Your housing choice makes a difference. An established apartment, loft, newer mid-rise, high-rise or privately owned condo can have a different price, even in the same area. Size, finishes, views, amenities, lease length and move-in date all matter.

Prices and availability vary each day. These are illustrative search budgets, not area-wide minimums, averages or guaranteed quotes. Homes may cost less or more. Sources reviewed November 27, 2026; figures are not a forecast of 2027 rents. Some advertised prices include mandatory fees and others show base rent. Ask for an itemized quote including fees, parking and utilities; compare specials separately.

HomeBase 30-Day Social Connections Plan

Before moving, collect resident-event dates and contact alumni, recreation or volunteer groups. In your first month, work toward about three social activities a week, adjusted to your interests and workload. Familiar places and repeated visits help connections grow.

Suggested targets, not leasing guarantees. Timing is relative to your start date except the utilities row, which uses move-in. Holiday Break visits and exact apartment availability may fall at different times.

Make Dallas Yours

Your First 30 Days Here

These are suggestions to help you begin, not a checklist you have to complete. Choose the places, people and activities that suit your interests, energy and work schedule. Start small, return to what you enjoy, and give new connections time to grow. Your Dallas life should feel like yours.

Your first weekend / Get your bearings

Walk your neighborhood in daylight, find a coffee shop and grocery store you will actually use, and try a casual lunch near home. Visit Klyde Warren Park or the Katy Trail, then invite a colleague or another newcomer along. Keep it simple: the goal is to make your immediate neighborhood feel familiar.

Find Dallas experiences →

Your first week / Make workdays easier

Try the door-to-door office journey before your first busy morning. Learn your building's package process, garage access, guest rules and service contacts. If work travel is part of your role, practice the airport departure routine and decide how deliveries and trusted helpers will be handled while you are away.

Review airport and transport resources →

Weeks two and three / Show up again

Choose activities you would enjoy returning to: a resident event, alumni gathering, pickleball, volunteering or a faith community if it fits your interests. HomeBase's plan suggests about three social activities a week during your first month, flexing around work and travel. Repeated visits help new faces become familiar.

By day thirty / Keep what works

Check in on the routines that feel good: your favorite walk, a reliable dinner plan and people you would like to see again. Try one new cultural event or professional gathering, and make another invitation. Ask HomeBase for ideas as your preferences become clearer; your Dallas life can keep growing around you.
